PHASE ONE

Phase One of the master plan opens the lower third of the site to the public with an eight-acre park that includes the south service court with preserved historic resources. The integration of a community recreation center with these preserved historic elements—including silos, service courts and regulator houses—creates a unique and noteworthy open space experience.

PHASE ONE SITE PLAN

The project creates a series of connected public spaces:

- The South Service Court as a formal entrance
- A playground and park next to the recreation center
- Reconstruction of the historic memorial fountain
- The preserved Filter Cell 28 for historical interpretation
- The Olmsted Walk connecting different areas of the site
